5. FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT

Türk Telekom Group is exposed to financial risks such as liquidity risk, foreign exchange risk, interest rate risk and counterparty risk.

To minimize liquidity risk, the Group obtains long-term financing from several geographies (U.S., Europe, Gulf, Japan, China, and Turkey) and several sources (commercial banks, international financial institutions such as EIB and EBRD, officially supported export credit agencies and bond). This strategy enables the Group to secure long-term financing at lower costs and also eliminates the Group's dependency on a single region or investor group.

Relating to Eurobonds issued by Türk Telekom, the Group actively monitors the price and yield dynamics of these bonds, which are tradeable instruments in the secondary markets, in order to formulate optimum cash management strategies on a total return and cost basis.

Long-term financing and diversified sources result in the Group carrying liabilities in foreign currencies. Due to net liabilities denominated in foreign currencies and fluctuating exchange rates, the Group is often exposed to foreign exchange risk, which may have an impact on cash flow and the balance sheet.

Türk Telekom minimizes the negative impact of foreign exchange risk on its cash flow by carefully planning foreign currency cash flow. Firstly, the Group holds a balanced portfolio of foreign currencies (US Dollar and Euro) to avoid adverse impacts on the balance sheet. Additionally, in the face of exchange rate fluctuations between the Turkish Lira and these foreign currencies, the Group initiated a long-term hedging strategy in 2015. In this framework, as of 30 June 2019 the Company has hedge position of USD 1.98 billion equivalent, details of which are provided in the footnotes to the financial statement. Furthermore, in order to create a natural hedge against foreign exchange risk, Türk Telekom keeps a significant portion of its liquid assets in the form of foreign exchange cash.

To avoid interest rate risk, as of 30 June 2019 Türk Telekom has a position of USD 450 million equivalent of interest-rate swap, details of which are provided in the footnotes in the financial statements.

Together with the use of fixed-cost funds such as bonds, Türk Telekom reduces its exposure to the risk of a floating interest rate.

With regard to its financial assets, Türk Telekom maintains its strategy of minimizing exposure to counterparty risks by implementing limits and a diversification policy.

Türk Telekom carries the transactions to manage the financial risks based on the Financial Risk Management Policy approved by the Board of Directors.
